ONE WEBSITE SOLUTION MAKES TEXT MESSAGING EASIER

“Thumbs” Everywhere Breathe a Sigh of Relief

Scottsdale, Ariz. (June 2, 2007) – One Website Solution, has announced a new enhancement to its Web-based email product—short message service (SMS) integration, also called text-messaging service. The new feature lets subscribers to One Website Solution’s Web-based email instantly send text messages, as well as standard email.

With the texting feature in One Website Solution’s Webmail, moms can instantly send reminder emails to kids and text them at the same time so they don’t forget homework. Sports fans can catch the latest scores and chide their friends who are at the game. All of this from your desktop—which means no clumsy thumbing in messages on your wireless phone anymore.

Here’s how it works: One Website Solution customers can access their Web-based email accounts as they always have, but now a drop-down menu gives an option to select email only, text message only or both. A simple cell phone field in the user’s address book drives the feature. In addition, One Website Solution includes a function that allows users to keep within the 160 character limit required by cell phone carriers for text messages.
